

13 : Neuroscience

Modeling neural networks in Alzheimer's disease.

This project involves analyzing electrophysiological data and brain imaging to better understand the mechanisms of neuronal degeneration.

Simulations of biological neural networks will be conducted using tools like NEURON or Brian2.

A combined approach including biochemical analyses, behavioral tests, and modeling will be used to study the effects of amyloid proteins.