

16 : Ecology

Impact of climate change on marine biodiversity.

This internship will analyze the effects of temperature variations and ocean acidification on coral populations and other marine organisms.

Field data collection and predictive models will be used to estimate how marine ecosystems evolve in response to climate change.

Ecological modeling will be employed to evaluate the impact of rising temperatures on species reproduction and migration.